All of the explanations, examples and special features in COBUILD dictionaries are based on the 4.5-billion-word database of the English language, the Collins Corpus. This means that learners and teachers around the world can trust COBUILD to help them speak and write accurate and up-to-date English. The corpus is updated every month and has been at the heart of Collins COBUILD for over 25 years.

What does COBUILD mean and why does it matter?

• Collins Birmingham University International Language Database (COBUILD) was a research project set up by the University of Birmingham and Collins in the 1980s, run by the pioneering linguist John Sinclair. It resulted in the creation of an electronic corpus that revolutionized dictionary making.

• The original COBUILD dictionary, published in 1987, was the first of a new generation of dictionaries for learners based on actual corpus evidence rather than on the compilers’ intuition. Collins has continued to build on this pioneering research, delivering real English to students and teachers around the world.

• This corpus is now part of the Collins Corpus, which is the largest collection of authentic English language data in the world. It is constantly updated to reflect current language use and continues to inform our dictionary publishing.

All COBUILD Dictionaries include:

▶ Full sentence definitions: All words and phrases are covered in depth and explained in full sentences to show words in context.

▶ Authentic examples: Real-life examples of English from the Collins Corpus show how words are used in everyday language.

▶ Up-to-date coverage of today’s English: COBUILD dictionaries are based on the constantly updated 4.5-billion-word database of today’s English language, the Collins Corpus.

▶ Frequency: The most important words are clearly labelled to indicate which words to learn first.

▶ Vocabulary-building features: All COBUILD dictionaries include a wide range of features to help learners use English with accuracy and confidence.

“Working from a regularly updated corpus of over 4.5 billion words taken from authentic sources, Collins COBUILD products provide learner-friendly resources on how words are really used.”

It’s impossible to avoid advertisements. In our homes, newspapers, magazines, and television programmes are advertisements. Politicians, Marketers, and OPEC want us to spend money, and newspaper, radio, and television advertising help to sell products. Advertisements are a major part of our lives. They appear in magazines, newspapers, and on television. In advertising, advertisers try to sell a product. Advertisers spend huge sums of money on advertising. Far
far has two comparatives, farther and further, and two superlatives, farthest and the most.

Farther and farthest are used mainly in everyday speech, whereas farther and the most are used in formal speech.

Furthest and the farthest are used mainly by writers to describe something as far as possible.

Our database shows that people use far either:

- to mean distance or to refer to something that is far away

- to mean very or very much

Far, like near, is used very commonly in day-to-day speaking.

When you are talking about distance, but not usually in affirmative sentences, the pronunciation is /fər/.

If you say that something is far from true, you are saying that it is not true at all.

If you say that something is not far from true, you are saying that it is partly true or at least partly true.
