

Share of world tourism

Tourism is a popular global leisure activity and is an important industry for many countries. It brings in large amounts of income for goods and services available and contributes an estimated 5% to the worldwide Gross Domestic Product. It also creates opportunities for employment in the service industries associated with tourism.

