Student preparation for this class: Have students complete Review 3. (20 mins)

Teacher preparation: none.

Focus: Exercises 1 revises language from Units 4–6; Exercise 2 revises pronoun reference; Exercise 3 revises the passive; Exercise 4 revises how to write an essay, considering advantages and disadvantages; Exercise 5 revises the use of linking words; Exercise 6 revises the use of the passive to write about a process.

Spot check 1 (25 mins):

To check learners' recall of language from Units 7–9, have them test each other in pairs. Students work in groups of four to prepare a quiz based on vocabulary from Units 7–9. They then pair up with learners from different groups to test each other.

Spot check 2 (25 mins):

To check learners' understanding of the passive, have them work in groups to describe a process of their choice in writing. Discuss possible ideas for processes to describe as a class to encourage students to think of something that interests them. Point out that you can help them with any vocabulary they need for the writing. Write any new vocabulary on the board as it might be of interest to other groups. Groups swap texts and the other groups read them out to the class. If you run out of time, you could simply ask the groups to write their names on the texts they have written and hand these into you.
